

This is a sample of text on a narrow column which should force Word to hyphenate words.

The world's irreplaceable natural heritage is being destroyed at an unprecedented rate. Plants and animals are being threatened with extinction at a speed and on a scale never seen before in human history. Meanwhile, an area four times the size of Switzerland — some 17 million hectares — is being lost each year, according to the most recent assessments by the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO).